PUBLIC SPACES

+ Commons

Commons is a seating and tables system designed to support the common space, the architecture around it, and the people who move through it. With bold structural architecture, Commons expresses what might otherwise go unsaid in traditional seating. The variety of angled pieces allows for designs to be made that enhance the space rather than reducing it. The ability to place the arms at any connection within configurations, as well as optional power and data support helps users to stay connected while still having a moment to relax.

Commons is designed by Michael Shields.
